Contests

- Pie Eating
- Jalapenos
- Frozen T-Shirt
- Fear Factor

Frozen T-Shirt Contest

How it Works - Take 2XL cotton t-shirts, and soak them in water, twist and bunch them up then put them in a freezer at least overnight. Just prior to the event take them out of the freezer and give each contestant one. They then have to thaw them enough to get the shirts on over their clothing. First person to do so is the winner.

Rules – No outside help. They can not use any form of liquid to thaw the shirts.

Jalapenos Eating

How it Works - Contestants have a plates of raw jalapenos in front of them.
Contestant who eats the most in the allotted amount of time is the winner.
Bread and or milk will be available after contest to soothe participants.

Rules - Half eaten peppers do not count

Pie Eating

How it Works – Contestants have a pie placed in front of them on a table. At the signal they must eat their pie using only their mouths, no hands. Person who has eaten most at the end of the time is the winner.

Two categories adult and youth.

Rules – If you throw up your out. No use of hands, other than to hold the plate.

Baumholder Fear Factor

How it Works - Have containers on stage that the contestants can not see into. In each container will be a different item. They have to pick out three containers and put their hands into them. They will have to describe outloud what it feels like and then guess what the item is.

Items like raw scrambled eggs, catsup, raw liver etc. will be used.

Person who guesses most correct is winner.

Rules - Contestant can not pull out their hand before they make a guess. Once a container is picked by a contestant it can not be picked by anyone else.
